Budapest Open Society Fellowship Program
Call for Applications for AY 2025/26:
Illiberal Times and Spaces

Deadline for Application:
20 September 2024

The Institute for Advanced Study (IAS CEU) together with the Democracy Institute (DI) and the Blinken OSA Archivum (OSA) at the Budapest site of CEU are pleased to launch their joint call for applications for its fellowship program Illiberal Times and Spaces for the academic year 2025/26.

The three Budapest-based units of CEU invite applications for their joint fellowship call. In various capacities, the Democracy Institute, the Blinken OSA Archivum and the Institute for Advanced Study are engaged in a multi-year research, teaching and public program series on issues related to historical revisionism. The present call focuses on the ways current trends of illiberalism are reshaping the temporal and spatial frameworks of societies. History is rewritten to sustain self-victimizing ethnocentric grand narratives, the present is meant to be “ruled” by the autocratic leader, always adjusting the visions of the past and future to his actual political position. Social spaces are also reshaped by these illiberal projects; people are pushed out of visibility when they try to contest the regime, and urban settings are redesigned to sustain the illiberal memory politics with never-existed monuments of past glory. They also create new transnational frameworks, where the temporal and spatial axes are mixed in an innovative way, thus pitching Orbán’s Hungary as a “possible future” of the United States.

Along these lines, this thematic call is addressed to scholars, artists and media professionals from all disciplines and fields who are interested in exploring the ways in which ideologically motivated groups, politicians, experts, or public figures with an illiberal agenda seek to reshape the temporal and spatial coordinates of our societies. The call has no regional preference.

Fellowships are available in all research areas of the social sciences and humanities, broadly defined and for artists of all fields of practice. Fellowships run for the full 9-month period (October-June), for the 3-month short fall semester (October-December), the 5-month fall semester (October-February) or the 6-month spring semester (January-June).

The cooperating institutions select fellows for this special fellowship program which runs under the overall umbrella of the Budapest site as part of the intellectual program on the study of illiberalism. Fellows are chosen through a rigorous selection process, which includes stages of pre-selection and peer reviews as well as a final decision made by an independent, interdisciplinary, and international selection committee. The Institute and her partners are committed to the pursuit of cutting-edge interdisciplinary scholarship and will seek innovative research proposals. Young scholars with demonstrable promise of excellence will be considered; established senior scholars are expected to have solid records of first-rate scholarship. Scholars at risk are encouraged to apply. A primary criterion for selection is the expectation that each fellow's stay at the Institute will yield original and significant research results in conversation with other fellows working on the broad topic of Illiberal Times and Spaces.

IAS CEU is an independent Institute for Advanced Study based at the Budapest site of Central European University. CEU operates at two locations, with the main campus in Vienna and several research institutes and centers in Budapest. Located in the heart of one of Central Europe's most attractive cities, IAS CEU seeks to benefit from this arrangement and to be part of the rich academic life and research generated in both places. The Budapest site hosts, besides the IAS, a part of the CEU Library, the Blinken OSA Archivum, the Democracy Institute, the Center for Ethics and Law in Biomedicine, and the Summer University (SUN), as well as various research units and non-degree education programs. For further information, please refer to the Institute's website at <https://ias.ceu.edu>.

The Budapest site provides a stimulating environment in which fellows can devote themselves to research and share their work with peers both at the Institute and the other units of the University in Budapest and Vienna, through weekly seminars and other community programs. Fellows have access to all CEU facilities, including seminar and conference space, computer services, and library resources. They benefit from CEU's vibrant international atmosphere, its strong regional ties in Central and Eastern Europe, and its international scholarly networks. CEU facilitates the fellows' engagement with CEU and with Hungarian and Austrian, regional and international scholarly communities by encouraging collaborative projects, organizing joint public lectures and related activities.

Fellows of this program receive a monthly stipend and accommodation in the Raoul Wallenberg Guesthouse, located in the Castle district. Fellows are expected to reside in Budapest during their fellowship year, participate in the intellectual life of the Institute, and pursue their research agenda.

Eligibility, qualifications, experience

- Applicants must hold a Ph.D. or equivalent in the social sciences or humanities at the time of their application. Artists should hold a relevant university degree.
- Only those with publications in internationally recognized scholarly outlets will be considered. Artists should provide a commensurable strong track-record.
- Junior fellows must have obtained a Ph.D. degree issued in 2017 or later and must apply for the junior fellowship. Candidates who obtained their Ph.D. before 2017 are considered "senior" and must apply for the senior fellowship.
- Former full time CEU employees and students are not eligible to apply for 5 years after the end of their studies/contract (degrees must have been received and contracts must have ended by December 31, 2019 or earlier).
- Part-time/temporary employees of CEU are not eligible for 1 year after their contract ends (their contract must have ended by August 31, 2023 or earlier).
- Former fellows of IAS CEU are not eligible to apply again for a period of 7 years. Applications at an earlier stage may be considered only in exceptional cases.
- Reapplication is possible only 3 times within a period of 5 years.
- Applicants are expected to be able to communicate fluently in English as this is the working language of the Institute and CEU.

- Please be informed that the eligibility of applicants who require a visa for their stay in Hungary may need to be assessed on an individual basis.

Terms and conditions

Senior Fellows receive a net monthly stipend of 2,600 Euros, Junior Fellows receive a net monthly stipend of 1,500 Euros, and Artists in Residence 2,000 Euros to help support their stay in Budapest. In addition, all fellows and their families receive housing at the Raoul Wallenberg Guesthouse. Utilities at the Guesthouse will be charged to the Fellows. Fellows are also responsible for their own travel and health care provisions.
